

ALL RUSH TO BUY STOCKS.REAL ESTATE NEWS.

M'SINLEY'S VICTORY WORKS A MARK IN WALL STREET.

The Restoration of Public Confidence in the Nation's Future Strikingly Shown by the Economic Transactions Yesterday—Money Decreases, Easter and Stocks Jump Up.

As the clock in the steeple of old Trinity Church at the head of Wall street tolled 10 o'clock yesterday morning several men who had come from up town flocked to the big Bryan building across Broadway at Beekman street that was to sit and pay for by Richard Croker. At the same moment the useless rule of the beaten-up stale was hauled out of sight the sound of a mighty din came from around the corner, where on the door of the Stock Exchange, the shouting brokers were tumbling over each other in a scramble for stocks. The visitors at the polls of sound money and national prosperity naturally had an immediate effect upon the market. Timidity about the situation, on the theory that, however improbable, it was still possible that Bryan might be elected, left Wall Street's public over election day particularly non-holders of stocks. Traders sold out, preferring to pay higher prices after section in order to regain their stocks than to remain in a position where a panic might beat them badly. Investors also who had postponed purchases came to Wall Street yesterday in great numbers.

The business on the exchange was of tremendous volume, the tickers becoming so congested at times with the numerous sales to be recorded that the quotations were minutes behind time in making their appearance on the tape. Up in the visitors' lobbies overhanging the floor there was a great crowd of spectators when business began. They came in such numbers from the south gallery which is almost closed to the public, that it was hard to move. These visitors were in a happy frame of mind. So were the brokers who were jostled down with orders to buy or sell, a dozen or more of whom specialists in certain lines refused to handle any more orders. The passenger force of the exchange was found to be at its maximum.

Among the leading posts of the chief active stocks there were edifying struggling groups of men, all of them seeming to win their way to success, but not quite so far as they represent some of the one-handed men who, fearing sure of McKinley's election, had acquired their stocks at prices well in excess of the supply and the price advanced easily. It was evident that the desire to realize a speculative profit was dominant, and that many were buying stocks recently. Apparently these buyers had bought for a long pull in the belief that as prospects made no demand for stocks, the price would rise.
